IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The siting and design of Single Dwellings and associated outbuildings is regulated by the Building Regulations. Some housing estates in Hume City also have siting and design Rules or Building Envelopes that are unique to the allotments in the particular estate. Where this is the case the Building Regulations may be overridden by the unique siting and design rules or building envelopes.

If in any particular case there is a conflict between the regulations and unique siting and design rules or building envelopes advice should be sought from Hume City Council Building Control Services department, telephone 9205 2200. Copies of the Building Act 1993 and the Building Regulations 2018 can be accessed from the web site of the Victorian Government www.legislation.vic.gov.au

Council consent is required if a person wishes to site or design a Single Dwelling or any associated outbuilding in a manner that does not comply with the regulations. To apply for Council consent an application for Council Report & Consent must be lodged with the Council. Occasionally an application for a Planning Permit or approval will be necessary instead of an application for Council Council Report & Consent if this is a requirement of Planning legislation.

Council requires the applicant to supply adjoining owners comments in relation to an application at the time of lodgement. See Affected Adjoining Owners Consent Form.

This information is collected for the purposes of complying with the requirements of the Building Act 1993. Council will not disclose this information unless it is permitted to do so in accordance with the Act(s), or per the provisions of Council’s Information Privacy and Health Records Policy. Failing to provide sufficient or necessary information may limit Council’s ability to provide related service(s).
