Background and Legislation

Background

Staff grievances refer to complaints or concerns raised by employees regarding their work environment, conditions, treatment or other employment related matters. Grievances can arise from a variety of issues, including but not limited to conflicts with colleagues or supervisors, unfair treatment, discrimination, harassment, policy violations, workload concerns or disputes over compensation and benefits.

When employees feel aggrieved, they may choose to voice their concerns formally through the organisation's grievance process. The purpose of a staff grievance process is to provide a structured mechanism for employees to express their dissatisfaction, seek resolution, and address any perceived injustices or violations of their rights.

Staff Grievance Dispute Resolution Guidelines

Hume City Council Early Years Services aims to maintain a harmonious work environment. This guideline aims to assist staff and management to resolve staff grievances effectively and to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Hume City Council Early Years Services is committed to addressing staff grievances in a prompt and effective manner. The rights of employees will be respected in the grievance process.

Both the employer and employee will abide by their obligations under the Hume City Council Enterprise Bargaining Agreement (EBA) No. 8 (2021-2025).

These guidelines should be read in conjunction with the grievance procedure in the Hume City Council Enterprise Bargaining Agreement (EBA) No. 8 (2021-2025). Refer to clause 10 (Grievance Procedure) in the Victorian Early Childhood Teachers and Educators Agreement 2020 (VECTEA).

To avoid any perceived conflict of interest, if the approved provider (including nominated supervisors/directors/management teams or committee members)(if applicable) are personally involved in issues as a complainant, or in allegations of discrimination, they will stand aside from participation in Complaint subcommittees or procedures related to the investigation or management of complaints. The service or organisation will ensure that all complaints/grievances, regardless of whether they are of a major or minor nature, will be treated seriously and an investigation carried out fairly, efficiently, and expeditiously.

The following guidelines are to ensure that grievances are resolved by discussion between the parties. The employer recognises that, from time-to-time, individual employees may have grievances that need to be resolved in the interest of good relationships.

- Listen to the complainant. Obtain a chronology of events (who, what, when, where, why, how).
- Offer the complainant assistance (such as counselling through the Employee Assistance Program (EAP)) or a way to get home safely if they are visibly upset.
- Confidentiality is to be respected at all times. Information about a grievance will not be disclosed or discussed outside of the grievance procedures, except as required by law.
- A staff member who has commenced a grievance process may withdraw and stop the process at any time without penalty.
- No staff member will suffer any personal or professional disadvantage because they decide to pursue a grievance in accordance with this policy and procedures.

- Employees may elect to have a support person of their choice present as a witness at any meetings or interviews. This may be a union representative consistent with the Enterprise Bargaining Agreement (EBA) No. 8 (2021-2025).
- Until the grievance is resolved, work shall continue as normal unless there is a clear threat to any employee's health or safety.

Direct Resolution

Staff members who wish to raise a grievance should, in the first instance (feels comfortable and safe to do so), attempt to resolve the issue directly with the person(s) involved. The aggrieved person is encouraged to make the person or persons aware that their actions are unwelcome / offensive / intimidating.

Leadership (Nominated Supervisor/Assistant Team Leader/Team Leader/Regional Coordinator/Coordinator

If matters are not resolved, or the staff member is unwilling to raise it with the person(s) involved or with leadership, the staff member should raise the grievance with the next level of management. Staff will move through each level only if they consider that their grievance has not been resolved.

People and Culture

The People and Culture team have the responsibility to:

- provide advice, assistance, and support to all parties to a grievance in line with this policy and procedure
- afford confidentiality for all parties involved in the grievance
- facilitate satisfactory resolution of the matter between parties
- manage the grievance investigation process and ensure it is conducted in a procedurally fair and transparent manner and without undue delay
- appoint an external and/or independent investigator to conduct the investigation as required
- engage mediators as required
- review the findings and resolutions for compliance with this policy and/or any actions that relate to the Disciplinary Policy
- maintain a dialogue with all parties to the grievance to ensure constructive, respectful, and proactive resolution of any grievances that arise

Approved Provider

The Approved Provider has a responsibility to:

- be aware of their obligations and responsibilities in relation to handling grievances
- appoint an external and/or independent investigator to conduct the investigation as required
- facilitate satisfactory resolution of the matter between parties and/or engage mediators as required
- review the findings and resolutions for compliance with this policy and/or any actions that relate to the Disciplinary Policy
- maintain a dialogue with all parties to the grievance to ensure constructive, respectful, and proactive resolution of any grievances that arise

Investigating a Grievance

If it is not possible to resolve a grievance through discussions with relevant parties expeditiously, conduct a formal investigation into the grievance.

Procedural fairness and transparency are critical in a workplace investigation (refer to Definitions). Maintaining procedural fairness means that you can:

- protect the interests of the participants in the investigation
- enhance the credibility of the investigation process
- rely on the investigation (and your findings) when making employment decisions
- defend your employment decisions in a court of tribunal

The following list includes recommendations to ensure that a workplace investigation is procedurally fair. The investigator should ensure that:

- the respondent is aware of all the allegations made against them in sufficient details
- the respondent is allowed a reasonable opportunity, including adequate time, to respond to each of the allegations
- the investigation is carried out in a reasonable time frame
- all participants are given the opportunity to have a support person in the interviews pertaining to the investigation
- all participants are required to maintain confidentiality
- the investigator has no personal interest or bias in the matter being investigated
- all participants are given the opportunity to respond to any contradictory evidence
- the investigator makes reasonable and diligent enquiries to ensure that there is sufficient evidence before making findings on the balance of probabilities

Dispute Resolution

Should a grievance not be resolved in a manner which is satisfactory to the Complainant or Respondent, then either party may enact the dispute resolution provisions in the Enterprise Bargaining Agreement (EBA) No. 8 (2021-2025). An employee who is a party to the dispute may appoint a representative for these purposes. Refer to Clause 13 (Dispute Resolution) in the Victorian Early Childhood Teachers and Educators Agreement 2020 (VECTEA).

The Importance of Impartiality

It is critical to ensure that the person responsible for carrying out an investigation is impartial. The investigator must not have a vested interest in the outcome of the matter. It is important to consider:

- whether the use of an external investigator is necessary to ensure impartiality
- whether any conflicts of interest need to be disclosed (e.g., if any individuals are friends outside the workplace)
- whether the investigator has handled any previous disciplinary matters

If there is the possibility that a person's employment will be terminated if the allegations are proven as part of an investigation, then you should seriously consider the use of an external investigator to ensure that your investigation and the process followed will stand up in any potential court proceedings.

Resolution and Documentation

When a grievance is resolved, the relevant parties will be notified accordingly. Where it is considered appropriate to document outcomes of a grievance procedure, it will be placed on the employee's personnel file and a copy given to the employee.
